

How can you have your dinner and give it away, too?

Easy – if you sign up for Trinity’s inaugural Chef Cooking Class and Aid For Friends meal preparation.

On Monday, October 23, at 6:30 PM, Chef Alex Cormier from Rick’s Italian Restaurant in Lambertville, will demonstrate some of his cooking skills and provide hands-on experience to 20 lucky people. Together with Chef Alex we will prepare an Italian dinner that includes Chicken Picatta, Cheese Cannelloni with Marinara sauce and Green Beans Almondine. After all of the meal is cooked, we will fill Aid For Friends trays and also enjoy the fruits of our labor ourselves.

Chef Alex Cormier, the son of a Russian mother and French father, was raised in Philadelphia. His resume includes stints at La Truffe, the Fountain Restaurant at the Four Seasons Hotel in Philadelphia, The Watergate, Johnny K’s and The Four Seasons in Washington, D.C., Montrachet, New York, Harriette’s Restaurant in Princeton and Alison on Dominick in New York City.

Longing for a simpler life Cormier came to Rick’s in Lambertville as executive chef in 2000. And in 2003, he bought the place. Alex enjoys showcasing a spectacular array of fine European and Asian influenced cuisines for specials, while maintaining the integrity of the base Italian menu that has made Rick’s a favorite destination for over a decade.

The cost for the Cooking Class is $25, which includes all of the ingredients. The Class will be held in the Trinity Kitchen beginning at 6:30 PM.
